TEN HURT, ONE DEAD IS TOLL OF ACCIDENTS

Mishaps in Marion and Vicinity Reach High Total; Carey Child Dies.

FIVE KILLED IN STATE

Five Persons Injured When Auto Hits Freight Train Here.

Nine persons were injured in automobile and train accidents in Marion and vicinity, a Carey child was fatally burned, and a Marion county woman was badly burned in accidents over the week-end.

In accidents over the state five were killed and seven were injured, according to an Associated Press report.

Mrs. Beaver Bricker of west of Marion, was badly burned when paint exploded Saturday afternoon and at Carey the year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wedged was burned to death.

Five Marion persons were severely cut and bruised when their automobile hit a standing freight tram at the Silver street Chesapeake & Ohio railroad crossing Saturday night. One of the five is in the City hospital.

Two Columbus women suffered bad cuts and shock when the automobile in which they were riding overturned yesterday afternoon on the Klingel road east of Marion.

A young man was hurt when he dropped from a freight train last night at the Silver street C. & O. crossing. He is in the hospital.

Woman Burned as Paint Explodes

Roof paint that exploded when it was lifted off a stove, burned Mrs. Beaver Bricker, 22, from head to foot Saturday afternoon in the kitchen of her home on the Rayl-Uncapher pike west of Marion.

Although extensive, the burns are not deep enough to prove fatal, her physician said this morning at the City hospital where Mrs. Bricker is receiving treatment.

Mrs. Bricker was heating the paint for her father, F. M. Schaber, also of the Rayl-Uncapher pike, who planned to paint wagon wheels. When she lifted the paint from the stove, the bottom of the can dropped out and the contents exploded, spraying her with the hot liquid.

Mr. Bricker, Mr. Schaber and Roland Schaber, a brother of Mrs. Bricker, heard her screams and rushed in from the barnyard to find her on the floor, attempting to beat out the flames. Mr. Bricker threw a rug over her and smothered the flames. The W. C. Boyd ambulance took her to the hospital.

Mrs. Bricker is the mother of a 3-month-old daughter, born May 8 at the hospital. She was formerly Miss Lena Schaber.

Five Hurt As Car Hits Train

Five Marion residents were severely cut and bruised shortly before midnight Saturday when the automobile in which they were riding struck a standing freight train at the C. & O. crossing on Silver street.

Four of the injured were taken to the City hospital in an ambulance and a police car. Three were released after treatment but Harry Munro of 156½ South Main street, driver of the car, was still in the hospital at noon today. His condition, attaches said, was "fair."

Chest Injured

Munro, apparently the most seriously injured, suffered injuries to his chest and left side, cuts about the face and hands and several teeth were knocked out.

Others in the car, according to a police report, were Eddie Bray of 221 Elk avenue, a hotel employe, John Eby of 878 North State street, Hazel and Nina Kidd, sisters, both of 749 Silver street, and Violet Bridges of 402 Scranton avenue.

Police said Munro left the scene after the accident but was located and taken to the hospital in the police car. Eby, police said, was not located but was reported as not seriously hurt. Officers said

WHITE TELLS OF TAX PLANS

Proposals Not Used for Poor Relief Will Be Considered.

CONFERENCE IS PLANNED

$7,000,000 Will Be Needed for School Relief in State.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug 21—Gov. George White's taxation program to furnish $7,000,000 supplemental relief for schools probably will be drawn from the list of tax sources suggested to the legislature to finance the $24,000,000 relief program, the chief executive said today. He also said he was considering an earned income tax in connection with the program. The legislature reconvenes Tuesday.

The executive announced that he expected to confer during the day with Director of Education B. O. Swinner, Major E. O. Braught, secretary of the state relief commission, and Carlton S. Dargusch, member of the state tax commission, concerning the school financing program. He expects to propose the legislature as soon as it has fully completed the relief tax program.

To Follow Same Plan

Further, he said, he would follow the same procedure with his school program as was pursued in connection with relief, namely calling in legislative leaders to discuss it as soon as it has been outlined. He indicated he might present only one program. He offered five alternative programs for relief.

Taxes suggested by the governor for financing relief, but which were not adopted by the legislature in making up the relief bills, were a general sales tax, utilities tax, luxury taxes on furs, jewelry, etc., and a bond issue to be financed from a levy on real estate. It is anticipated the governor will base his school program on these tax sources unless he should "decide on an income tax. He suggested the bond issue only as a last resort."

Sees End This Week

The governor said he expected the legislature to complete the work of the special session this week, anticipating little difficulty in working out a school program. He said he was taking no position with respect to extending state aid to parochial schools. This has been recommended by a special senate committee.

In addition to school financing and more stringent kidnaping laws, the governor said he had three other matters to propose for legislative action at this time, but declined to divulge them.

LINDBERG AIDS FLIERS IN DISTRESS

By The Associated Press

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 21—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh obeyed a rule of the air and lent a helping hand to a comrade in distress when he aided a young British pilot, John Grierson, in salvaging parts from the latter's plane, wrecked yesterday in an attempted take-off for Greenland.

Grierson left England Aug. 5 on the first leg of an intended flight by stages to New York. A wave broke over one of the floats and wrecked the craft.

TO LAUNCH BIG NRA CANVASS NEXT MONDAY

Johnson Prepares For House to House and Store to Store Drive.

ALSO BUSY ON COAL CODE

Administrator Hopes To Complete His Emergency Work by Mid-November.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Recovery administrators, jubilant over their success with steel and oil, today modeled a code of fair competition to bring the great bituminous coal industry quickly within NRA's widening circle.

At the same time, Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, pointed his aids for the big drive—the house to house, store to store canvass that starts next Monday with the objective of placing a blue eagle in every window and insuring victory in President Roosevelt's re-employment campaign.

Johnson himself, it was learned authoritatively, has tentatively fixed mid-November, or the end of the year at the latest, to retire from the post he holds.

By then he expects his emergency work to be finished. He plans to return to private industrial life as an associate of Bernard M. Baruch, with whom he has worked since World war days. A permanent administrator will carry on in Johnson's place.

Coal Code Next

As soon as President Roosevelt approved codes for the basic steel and oil industries, late Saturday night, Johnson and his aids turned immediately to coal, a stumbling block for weeks.

When a committee of 15 coal operators were unable to agree again yesterday, Johnson started writing his own to place before them today. The coal men will be able to suggest amendments to this trade charter, but they will not be permitted to renew their wrangling.

Conferences are to be held this week, probably Tuesday or Wednesday, with officials of the automobile industry. Indications were that the open shop and maximum hour issues raised by the automobile code presented last week will be satisfactorily settled.

Enrollment of steel and oil under the NRA was regarded by Johnson as the crux of his task to get the major industries signed up under hour-shortening, wage-increasing agreements. With that done he announced plans for launching the campaign, patterned after the Liberty loan drives, to take the blue eagle into every store and home.

Missouri Latest To Approve Repeal, Bringing Total To 22.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Prohibition could be voted out of the constitution by Nov. 8.

Twenty-two states, including Missouri in Saturday's election, already have given ballot box approval to the twenty-first constitutional amendment, which repeals the eighteenth. None has voted the other way.

With 36 states needed to repeal, the following additional election dates have been definitely set:

Texas, Aug. 26; Washington, Aug. 29; Vermont, Sept. 5; Maine, Sept. 11; Maryland, Minnesota and Colorado, Sept. 12; Idaho and New Mexico, Sept. 19; Florida, Oct. 19; Utah, North and South Carolina, Pennsylvania and Ohio, Nov. 7.

Plans also have been made to obtain special elections in several others.

Steam Shovel Company Complies with NRA Code

C., D. & M. Electric Also Prepares To Get Under Blue Eagle; Recovery Jubilee on Wednesday.

Officials of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. today filed an NRA compliance certificate at the Marion postoffice, agreeing to place all employes except outside salesmen and watchmen under a system of shortened hours and minimum pay.

Other local NRA developments included an application filed in Toledo federal court today by the receivers for the C., D. & M. Electric Co. for permission to place that company under the NRA.

Mayor W. C. Phillians, meanwhile, urged that all citizens cooperating with the NRA, plan to join the parade Wednesday night preceding Marion's civic celebration of NRA support in the Chautauqua pavilion. The parade, to be made up of decorated automobiles, will form at 7 p. m. at the city hall on West Center street.

National Code

The code for the shovel, crane and dragline industry, which will be put into effect at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. provides a 40-hour work week for mechanical workers, artisans and other employes except outside salesmen and watchmen. The work week, however, the code provides, will be established on an average of each eight-weeks working period, with not more than 48 hours in any one week nor more than eight hours in one day.

Mechanical workers and artisans, under the code, are to receive a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929, was less than that rate. In that case, the hourly rate of pay is not to be less than that on July 15, 1929, and in no case less than 30 cents an hour. This is to be a guaranteed minimum rate of pay, according to the code, regardless of whether the employe is working on a time rate basis or on piece work performance.

Little Change

J. H. Watters, president of the company, said little change will be made in the plant, since all employes are practically working under these agreements now.

Adoption of the NRA by the C., D. & M. company, would mean the employment of about 10 more men in Marion, Richwood and the Scioto power plant, according to the company receivers, M. J. O'Connell and M. L. Sindeland. Details of the proposed code were not given out pending word from the federal court.

All citizens supporting the NRA plan in their stores or business and

The 30 Marion employers who, from Saturday noon until noon today, filed NRA compliance certificates at the Marion postoffice, are listed on page 16.

Punishment for Crazed Cuban Mob Demanded

By The Associated Press

HAVANA, Aug. 21—Punishment for leaders of a hate-crazed mob which took from its new grave the body of Gerardo Machado's police chief and burned and mutilated it was demanded today by several departments of the week-old Cuban government.

As the cabinet of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes tried to solve the hard problems of economic peace, there were other evidences of continuing hatred of the previous regime.

A manhunt for the few remaining Machadists went on; leaders of the opposition who had been forced into exile were coming back, and soldiers and members of the ABC secret society began digging again in Atares castle for bodies of those who died because of opposition to the Machado regime.

Antonio B. Aincart, villified as the director of bloody and repressive measures under the deposed president, committed suicide Saturday night while soldiers and ABC men closed in on his hiding place.

As soon as soldiers left his place of burial, 2,000 shouting persons opened the fresh grave, took the body in a truck to Havana university, mutilated it, and hoisted it to the cross-bar of an electric light pole where it was burned.

Worried Parents Search as Two "Lost" Sons Sleep

Two modern Little Boy Blues caused anxious moments in Marion homes over the week-end while they went "fast asleep"—not in haystacks—but in even more out-of-the-way places.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Carl Parratt of 856 Market avenue, started her 7-year-old son Carl off to Sunday school. Two hours went by and no hungry son showed up for dinner. Rosy Future Once Seen by C., D. & M.

History of the C., D. & M. interurban line between Marion and Columbus dates back to 1902, when a line was built from Columbus to Delaware by John G. Webb founder of the road. A year later Webb extended the line to Marion.

Webb employed George Whysall, now manager of the Marion Water Co., as his chief engineer of construction work, and made him general manager in charge of operations when the job was finished.

Had Elaborate Plans

Whysall recalls that the Marion-Columbus line was to be the trunk of an interurban network centering in Marion, visioned by Webb at the time he was building the road. Webb's elaborate plans, according to Whysall, called for interurban lines radiating from this city to Bucyrus and eventually on to Sandusky, to Mt. Vernon, and another to Findlay to make connection with a line to Toledo. A short "feeder" line between Richwood and Prospect also was considered in Webb's plans.

Webb also recognized the banks of the Scioto river north of Pros-

LOCAL GRANGE WINS CONTEST

Bethlehem Group Victor Over Champion of Wyandot in Program Here.

REGIONAL MEET IS NEXT

500 Persons Attend Inter-county Competition at Central Junior High.

Bethlehem grange of Marion county was awarded the decision over Champion grange of Wyandot county in the inter-county program contest Saturday night at Central Junior High school. The Marion county grange will represent the two counties in the district program contest with granges from Delaware and Knox counties, also winners in inter-county contests. The contest will be held some time before Sept. 20, probably at Delaware. The district contest will be followed by a regional meet in October and the state contest at the state convention at Wooster in December.

About 500 persons attended the contest which was open to the public. Miss Freda Ulrich, lecturer of Wyandot county granges, presided. The two granges competed by virtue of having won county contests.

More than 50 persons took part in the program presented by Bethlehem grange which had for its theme, "Beautiful Grange." Music, readings and pantomimes made up the 20-minute program presented under the direction of the grange lecturer, S. B. Stowe. The 20-minute program presented by the Wyandot county grange had for its theme, "Optimism."

Contest judges were Raymond Mallow, deputy master of Hardin county, David Neff, Pomona lecturer of Crawford county and Fred Reeley, deputy master of Union county.

Completing the program were musical numbers contributed by Mrs. Alpheus Gruber and Miss Click of Progressive grange and Ward Coum and William Ikenssa of Mt. Olive grange.

Mrs. Gail Smith announced that officers of the county grange would put on the fifth degree work in full form at the meeting of Pomona grange Saturday night, Sept. 2 at Marion. A rehearsal meeting will be held with Mt. Olive grange Aug. 26 in the school building at Green Camp.

BUCYRUS MAN HELD AS FORGERY SUSPECT

Arrested in Local Store; Activities in Other States Probed.

Arrest Saturday night of a man giving his name as William B. Martin, 68, of Bucyrus R. F. D. No. 2, while passing an allegedly forged check at the Montgomery Ward store, is expected to clear up, authorities believe, a series of forgeries in states from Iowa to Ohio.

Police said that information from the Chicago headquarters of the Montgomery Ward Co. indicates that Martin is connected with the passing of a number of forged checks at company stores in the west and middlewest.

It is believed, authorities said, that Martin had been passing the checks, which were apparently signed by a woman, in the Instance here, the check was signed with the name of Nellie Miller and was on a Dayton bank. TROLLEY LINE TO SUSPEND AFTER 31 YEARS

Last Car Will Leave Marion for Delaware at 10 O'Clock.

ROAD WILL BE JUNKED

Twenty-Five Employes Will Be Affected By Abandonment.

Another chapter in the transportation history of north-central Ohio will be written tonight when the C., D. & M. Electric Co., interurban ceases operations.

When a chair car pulls out of Marion tonight at 10 and goes to its berth in the car barns at Delaware, the death knell will have been sounded for a 31-year-old transportation system that once was the pride of the communities through which it operated.

The "horseless cars" and miles of steel rails which paved the way for a considerable portion of the growth and expansion of the four counties through which they ran will be junked. C., D. & M. officials this morning said a recent inspection trip had been made by various salvage companies considering bidding for the abandoned property. The interurban property, they said, will be dismantled and sold, subject to the approval of the federal court, under which the line has been operating in receivership for several months.

Bids of salvage companies will be received by C., D. & M. officials on Aug. 25. It was announced.

Bucyrus Line Suspends

Dismantling of the lines, they said, will require several weeks. It is planned to use as many C., D. & M. employes as possible in the work of abandonment, it was announced. Preliminary work was begun this morning on the Bucyrus division, on which service was suspended this morning after a car, which left Delaware for Bucyrus at 7:45 a. m. had made its final trip. This car was manned by H. J. Arnold, conductor, and C. R. Ruder, motorman, both of Delaware.

The last car to Marion tonight will be in charge of W. N. Lawson, conductor, and V. E. Bush, motorman, both of Delaware. C. C. Moyer, railway superintendent, said this morning.

The abandonment will affect 25 employes. Sixty-three miles of tracks will be taken up, excepting a section which connects a C. & O. railroad switch at Sawyer road with the Scioto power plant. This section will be retained to haul coal to the plant. Other property to be affected includes stations at Marion, Bucyrus, Delaware and Prospect and the car barns and station at Delaware. 11 passenger cars, 14 freight cars, 18 miscellaneous cars such as dump and flat cars, and four work cars. Among the passenger cars are two all-steel chair cars, placed in operation on Jan. 26, 1926. At the time they were purchased, they were the "last word" in interurban cars, C., D. & M. officials said.

To Retain Right-of-Way

Much of the interurban right-of-way, owned by the company, will be retained as right-of-way for electric power lines, they said.

The freight and passenger station on West Center street in Marion will be retained by the company for use by the electric power department. Parts of buildings now occupied as freight and passenger stations at Delaware will be used for storage space. The station at Prospect has been closed two years and will continue to serve as a storage room for electrical equipment. Stations at Columbus and Bucyrus are not owned by the C., D. & M.

An interurban operation loss of approximately $50,000 a year will be done away with by abandonment of the line, C., D. & M. officials estimated. Little information, they said, is available on the value of the abandoned property and the amount of bonded debt on the line because the valuations and bonds are interwoven with the electric power property of the C., D. & M.

Money obtained from the sale of abandoned property will be held in trust by a trustee for the bondholders, it was announced. Holders of first-lien of the bonds, scattered throughout the country and in [illegible], have consented to the abandonment, as required by the state [illegible] commission and the federal court. A committee of bondholders spent the last several months obtaining the bondholders' consent to the proposed abandonment.

Abandonment Delayed

TO LAUNCH BIG NRA DRIVE NEXT MONDAY

Jr., and Speaker Henry T. Rainey, will take part. One million, five hundred thousand volunteer workers already have been organized for this drive, as well as to check up on employers and uncover violations by those who fail to increase wages and add new help.

Codes for 14 industries have been approved, including four of the major industries, cotton textiles, lumber, oil, and steel. In addition more than 100 are operating under temporary agreements, 17 approved yesterday. Within the next 10 days, 21 hearings on permanent codes will be held.

Oil leaders today were interesting themselves in the make-up of the committee of fifteen to be appointed within a week by Mr. Roosevelt to administer the new oil code with its modified price control regulations and provisions for limiting marketing.

At the same time, steel officials began the important changes in operations required of them, one of the first tasks being the preparation and filing with the iron and steel institute of a list of prices.

Roosevelt at Home; Confident of Coal Code

By The Associated Press

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 21 — President Roosevelt confidently awaited the new deal for the disordered coal industry today as the climax of his drive for better days for American working men and industry.

His last minute signature of the steel and oil chargers Saturday night is regarded by leaders as an epochal step in the recovery campaign. So, the President relaxed today in his boyhood home on the banks of the Hudson looking forward to early conclusion of his campaign for a reorganized nation.

After a Sunday of rest with his family, Mr. Roosevelt was reserving himself for official business only as he went again to his windswept study.

There is no doubt in the mind of the President that the code prescribing working hours and wages for the troubled bituminous coal industry will be forthcoming in the next two days. He realizes it is a difficult problem to bring it to one working agreement the hundreds of companies which have been fighting for an edge. Also, the chief executive expects in the next two weeks all of the basic industries, including the giant automobile business, to come under the blue eagle.

LAST C., D. & M. CAR MAKES RUN TODAY and the state utilities commission to abandon the interurban, but the actual abandonment was held up until consent of the required number of bondholders could be obtained.

The only man who has been continuously connected with the C. D. & M. interurban since it began operations on April 13, 1902, is C. C. Moyer of Delaware, superintendent of the railway division of the C. D. & M.

Mr. Moyer was conductor of the second car that was placed in operation between Delaware and Columbus on Oct. 3, 1902, and a year later operated the first interurban car that came to Marion, he said. The late John Jamison was motorman of that car.

Mr. Moyer became train dispatcher for the C. D. & M. in 1909, was promoted to train master two years later, and in 1919 became superintendent, a position he has held since that time. C. D. & M. officials say he is the oldest employe, in point of service, in both the electrical and railway divisions.

Recalls Prosperous Days

The "good old days" (1909-1920), when the interurban line prospered and maintained the electric power division principally to supply the current for the cars were recalled vividly by Mr. Moyer in an interview this morning.

"We used to run 16 round trips a day between Marion and Columbus, and had other cars on the tracks between times," Mr. Moyer said. "Freight business also was good in that period, and our line, connected with others, handled much of the freight that went from Columbus to Cleveland."

"I remember," he said, "how our rapid growth in the first few years was suddenly halted by the 1907 panic. That put us into receivership, and Eli M. West of Columbus was appointed receiver. The company then was known as the C., D. & M. Railroad Co.

"The line picked up after the panic and prospered in receivership. In 1917 it was taken out of receivership and became the C., D. & M. Electric Co.

"Automobiles began cutting in on us back as far as 1910, and reduced our passenger business steadily. By 1921 they had absorbed practically all of the passenger business that used to keep us at capacity operations."

Owns Glenmary Park

When interurban companies were in their heyday, most of them owned or sponsored a public park as a business stimulator. The C. D. & M. was no exception. It owns Glenmary park, located between Delaware and Columbus on state route 23, now standing idle.

Mr. Moyer recalls years in which it was a common practice to operate interurban trains made up of three or four cars between Columbus and the park on a 30-minute schedule to handle the crowds that assembled there on Sundays and holidays during summer months.

From 1903 to 1906, Marion park located near the property on which the Scioto power plant now stands also drew huge crowds from Marion he recalled. The old Columbus zoo, then located three miles south of Worthington, was another attraction that made business for the interurban from 1902 to 1906.

The C., D. & M. operated street cars in Delaware from April, 1902 to August, 1926, and furnished Delaware residents city bus service from 1926 to 1931, Mr. Moyer said.

It also operated street cars in Marion from about 1903, when it absorbed the old Marion Street Railway Co. which had been in operation for little more than a decade, to 1928. In 1928 the Marion Rapid Transit Co. began operation of city busses.

Terminal at Delaware

Throughout the entire history of the road, Delaware has been the terminal for all cars. Car barns were located in Stratford until 1928 when they were destroyed by fire. They were moved into Delaware after the fire.

In 1921, when the Scioto power plant was built, the electric power division of the C., D. & M. began to grow rapidly, C., D. & M. officials said. From that year on, the electric power business expanded and the interurban activities decreased, they said. The interurban property now represents a comparatively small part of the C., D. & M. holdings.

The ranks of Ohio interurban lines, numbering as high as 51 at one time, have thinned rapidly in the last few years, C., D. & M. officials said. Among the principal remaining lines are the Cleveland & Lake Erie, operating from Columbus to Toledo and to Cincinnati; Dayton & Western, operating between Dayton and Indianapolis; Lake Shore Electric, operating between Cleveland and Toledo.

Insofar as possible, employes in the railway division will be retained in other positions, it was announced. Among some of the veteran employes in the railway division are W. A. Clark, freight motorman, who has been in the employ of the company for 28 years; Harry Arnold, conductor, 27 years of service; C. F. Ruder, motorman, 24 years of service; V. E. Bush and Herbert Powell, motorman and conductor, respectively, 22 years of service each; W. N. Lawson, conductor, 16 years of service. All reside in Delaware.

Conductor of First Car To Ride Again Tonight

When the last C., D. & M. interurban car leaves Marion tonight in the termination of 30 years of interurban service between this city and Delaware, the man who was the proud conductor of the first car to link those two cities probably will be among the passengers.

He is C. C. Moyer, railway superintendent for the C., D. & M. Although he was not certain this morning that he could finish with other engagements in time to board the last C., D. & M. passenger car, he hopes to make the trip.

"If I can possibly make it, I want Mrs. Moyer, my son, George, and his wife to accompany me," he said.

"Yes," he said in response to a question, "I might even serve as acting conductor for part of the trip—I was conductor of the first car to run between Delaware and Marion and it would be rather nice if I could serve in the same capacity for at least part of the final trip over the route."

Recalls First Trip

Mr. Moyer remembers the curious gazes of Marion residents when they saw the first interurban car arrive at 6 a. m. on Oct. 1, 1903. "Many of them never had seen an interurban car before," he said.

Although much interest was displayed in the interurban car on its initial run, there was little fanfare, Mr. Moyer recalls.

The arrival in Marion of the first interurban car linking this city with Delaware caused a mild sensation, it was recalled today by Moyer.

A news story in the Oct. 1, 1903, issue of The Star stated the car "attracted considerable attention. Excerpts from the story of the first car's arrival follow.

"The C., D. & M., this morning, inaugurated its regular service between here and Columbus, the first car leaving Marion at 6 a. m. The schedule makes cars leave both Delaware and Marion every two hours, on the even hour, commencing at 6 a. m.

Well Patronized

"The handsome new cars attracted considerable attention on their initial schedule trips this morning, and carried quite a number of passengers, considering that this was the first day for the regular service.

"No definite arrangements have as yet been made for the stopping of the local cars in this city, at regular stopping places. For the time being, the cars will stop with a view to accommodating passengers who desire to board cars in any portion of a block, but, after a time, it is likely that regular stopping places will be designated and passengers will have to board and depart from cars at these points."

COUZENS TELLS OF BANK TRANSACTIONS

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 21—United States Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, told the Detroit bank investigating jury here today that "there has been all kinds of 'kiting' of checks" in an effort to mislead the public as to the actual condition of the two national banks whose closings last February the jury is investigating.

The Michigan senator, declined to give the source of his information on the grounds it was confidential, said he was "satisfied that if the prosecutor goes into the dealings between the groups he will find all kinds of kiting of checks. This is a very serious situation."

He declared such action was made "as the time for the regular examinations approached."

"I am informed that on one occasion the Detroit Trust Co. got $6,000,000 from the First National Bank-Detroit," he said. "It then turned around and deposited this $6,000,000 with the First National as a trust fund. The net effect of this was to show that each bank had $6,000,000 in cash more than it actually had."

those having consumers' emblems today were urged by Mayor W. C. Phillians to assemble at city hall Wednesday at 7 p. m. with their automobiles to join a parade to the Chautauqua pavilion where the NRA jubilee will be held.

Big Garade Planned

The parade is being planned as a colorful affair, with several bands being arranged for and plans contemplating the formation of long lines of cars in the parade.

The program proper, in the pavilion, will start at 7:30 p. m. after the parade. All cars should be decorated with NRA emblems and flags, at the request of members of the local NRA campaign committee, sponsors of the celebration.

Identity of the jubilee speaker, who will come from the Washington, D. C., NRA headquarters, had not been learned at noon today. W. D. Brown, manager of the Marion Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the NRA committee here, this morning wired the Cleveland NRA offices in an effort to learn the speaker's name. He had not had a reply at noon.

Practically every Marion restaurant today put into effect a code for that industry as approved by the NRA administration on Aug. 10. The code provides for minimum pay of 26 cents a hour for men and women employes and work weeks of not more than 54 hours for men and 48 hours for women.

754 Signers Now

A total of 754 signers of compliance certificates was reached at the postoffice at noon today, as 20 employers filed certificates since Saturday noon.

Plans for enlisting every woman in Marion county as a signer of a consumer's pledge of NRA support were being completed today by Mrs. Grover C. Snyder, vice chairman of the local NRA committee in charge of the women's division.

Mrs. Snyder and members of 15 standing committees which she is now naming, are to contact all Marion county women and to pass along information about the NRA program.

Blue Eagle Soars Over State Today

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 21—The blue eagle soared over Ohio today to "round up laggard employers."

Miss Mary E. Woods, Ohio NRA director, included Akron, Youngstown, Canton and Columbus on the first day's schedule of a three-day campaign to bring employers who have not yet signed NRA agreements under the blue eagle. She designed her speaking tour that she might explain the purposes of the recovery drive, and bring about complete cooperation from all of Ohio's 322,000 employers, scarcely more than a third of whom have sent in signed agreements.

Before leaving she announced receipts of a ruling from Washington which brings "inside salesmen" under the higher wage and shorter hour provisions of the NRA codes.

Under this ruling, she said "inside salesmen" whose pay is made up entirely of commissions must be guaranteed remuneration equal to the minimum wage specified in the NRA agreements, and must be included under the maximum hour provisions.

Business men have complained to NRA headquarters that their competitors "were working clerks an illegal number of hours by calling them salesmen and allowing them to work strictly on a commission basis," Miss Woods said.

Kenton Prepares for Final Drive

KENTON, Aug. 21—James H. Allen Jr., chairman of the local NRA committee Monday announced the week starting Aug. 27 as the period when committee members will make a final drive to enroll every Kenton employer in the NRA. Each employer who has not at that time signed to employ men under the code set up by his trade group will be visited, it was said.

CODE CLARIFICATION AWAITED BY STEEL

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 21—Seasonal influences have increased the inability of steel purchasers to determine what effect industrial codes will have on costs and prices, the magazine Steel said today in its weekly review.

"As a consequence," the magazine said, "the decline in operations has become more rapid, with prospects for further reduction in the national average this week.

"Clarification of the industrial code situation, now confusing to iron and steel producers and consumers, is expected to supply a strong impetus for terminating the present intermission in buying, which has reduced steel work operations three more points to 51 per cent. Confidence in an early fall revival is strong."

Baby Dies as Carey House Burns

Special to The Star

CAREY, Aug. 21—The charred body of a year-old baby was carried from a flame-enveloped home here Saturday afternoon while four men struggled to keep the frantic mother from entering the house.

The baby was Edward Gene, 13-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Wedge. Mrs. Wedge was in a state of collapse today, exhausted from grief and the struggle she made to attempt to save her baby.

Cause Unknown

The origin of the fire that razed the small two-room frame home which at one time had been a garage, has not been definitely determined, Carey officials said. It is believed that curtains caught fire from a gas hot plate and started the fire.

Mrs. Wedge put the baby to sleep in the other room and went into the kitchen to preserve pickles. While the pickles were simmering she ran to the home of her sister, Mrs. John Williams, on an adjoining lot, to get jars and lids. She returned almost immediately, to find the house a blazing inferno, the dry lumber rapidly bursting into flame in every part of the small structure.

A large crowd gathered immediately and it took the efforts of four men to hold Mrs. Wedge back from the home.

The baby's cries could be heard for a few minutes after the crowd gathered.

When the fire department arrived water was thrown on the house and in a short time it was possible to enter and bring out the body, charred beyond recognition.

The funeral was conducted today at 2 p. m. at the home of the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Twining, with Rev. A. C. Rainsberger of the M. E. church in charge. Burial was made in the Spring Grove cemetery.

Two brothers of the baby, Donald and Robert were not at home.

A crossing watchman probably saved the life of Usher Rogers, 20, of 290 Kensington place, when the young man dropped from a Cresapeake & Ohio freight train last night at 8 at the Silver street crossing.

According to a report in the railroad office, Alva Orr of 462 Thompson street, watchman at the crossing, pulled Rogers away from the track.

Rogers, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Rogers of near Kenton, was riding the train from the C. & O. roundhouse and attempted to get aff while the train was still in motion.

He was badly cut about the head, both shoulders and neck, but his physicians said today that his condition was not serious. He was taken to the City hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance.

Women Injured As Car Overturns

Mrs. Harry Kreutzer, 31, and her sister, Mrs. Theodore Kittel, 33, both of Columbus, were injured when the car in which they were riding overturned in a ditch yesterday at 2 p. m. just off Route 98 on the Klingel road, east of Marion. The women, their father, Samuel Schorr and several small children were enroute to the Heimlich family reunion at the Whetstone grange hall.

Dr. R. S. Dombaugh their physician, said that neither was seriously injured. Mrs. Kreutzer is suffering from bruises and shock. Stitches were required to close a four-inch cut under Mrs. Kittel's right eye. Mr. Schorr was cut, and one of the children's knees was bumped.

The women were brought to the City hospital by Carl Klingel who operates a filling station a short distance from the scene of the accident.

Mr. Schorr lost control of the car when the wheels slid in loose gravel as he turned off Route 98 onto the Klingel road.

KIDNAP CONFESSIONS KEPT SECRET BY U. S.

By The Associated Press

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 21—Statements obtained from suspects held in Dallas for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, were sealed today for the eyes of a grand jury alone—for the protection of the signers themselves.

Frank Blake, department of justice agent in disclosing "several confessions" had been obtained from among the five persons held here, refused flatly, for fear of reprisals, to reveal just how many had been made and just what they contained.

The confessions, Blake said, would be in the hands of federal authorities in Oklahoma City when the grand jury convenes there Wednesday to go into the Urschel case.

COTTON PROCESSING TAX LAW EXPLAINED

Retail Merchants Must File Reports of Goods on Hand.

Explanation of the recently passed cotton processing tax, as it applies to retail merchants, was given today by Postmaster French Crow, on information received from Harry F. Busey, internal revenue collector at Columbus.

Under the tax law, passed as part of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, all retail merchants who have in stock articles processed wholly or "in chief value" from cotton are required to make a return showing the quantity in weight of these articles on hand at the close of business on Aug. 31.

The retailer is allowed 30 days from the effective date of the law, Aug. 1, to dispose of his retail stocks before the tax is applied. Cotton articles purchased between Aug. 1 and Aug. 31 may be deducted from the weight of such articles in stock at the end of that period. The tax of approximately four and one-half cents a pound will apply on the remainder.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO FLY EIGHT DAYS AND NIGHTS WITHOUT A STOP
● FRANCES MARSALIS AND LOUISE THADEN set the world's endurance flight record for women when they brought their plane down at Curtiss Field, Long Island, after flying more than 196 hours without a stop through fog, rain, blinding sun, and pitch-black night.
● IN ADDITION to their astounding endurance flight, Miss Marsalis (Left) and Miss Thaden hold many other flying records. Miss Marsalis is the women's champion stunt flyer of the world. It takes healthy nerves to fly...doubly so to fly like these two young women. It is significant that both are enthusiastic Camel smokers.
STEADY SMOKERS TURN TO CAMELS
MISS THADEN says: "Flying is a terrific strain at times. I frankly don't know what I should do without cigarettes. But I've found that different cigarettes have different effects on my nerves. For some years I've smoked Camels. They taste better. They're much milder. And I've noticed that they never upset my nerves."
MISS MARSALIS says: "I started smoking Camels because most of my friends who were flyers seemed to prefer them. I've never changed because I can't afford to take chances with my nervous system."
Camel's costlier tobaccos do make a difference...in taste, in mildness. They never jangle the nerves. Your taste and your nerves will confirm this. Turn to Camels.
IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand. You will find Camels rich in flavor and delightfully mild.
● WHAT A THRILL! And how a good smoke adds to the enjoyment! Light up a cigarette. And let the fragrance of your tobaccos, make it a Camel...the cigarette that's made from costlier tobaccos.

Dr. Turley chose his theme from Luke 9:32. "If we are to see the glories and beauties of life we must be awake," he said. The beauties and glories of nature, the commonplace things of life, the Bible and the life of Christ all are found and enjoyed by the soul that is awake, he pointed out.

Bernard Brooks, president of the Christian Young People's union presided for a short business session following the presentation of the pageant, "A Woman Who Dared." Music for the service was arranged by George Wingert of Trinity Baptist church.

Given in Marriage

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary's Histrionic Ability Comes in Handy As She and Noel Successfully Make Their Escape from the Farmhouse on the Start of Their Honeymoon.

WOULD THE ruse Mary had had planned so cleverly be effective in stopping the investigation of Bill and Hank into the identity of the two people who just had left our kitchen door?

This was the question which beat with crazy insistence against my brain as I saw Bill and Hank running toward the kitchen door from Noel's old car, where they had been stationed waiting to give the signal to the merry quartet who were determined to trail the bride and groom.

I shrank back behind the door and gave a tense, hoarse, whispered command to the Ticers.

"Quick, both of you, into the laundry and shut the door! Don't come out until I call you."

Mrs. Ticer, quicker-witted than her husband, grabbed his arm and dragged him through the door into the laundry. I shrank behind the kitchen door as Mary turned, in answer to Katie's call, and in an imitation of Mrs. Ticer's voice so lifelike that I jumped, she called back: "Well! What's on your mind now?"

"Don't forget to bring me some eggs in time for breakfast," Katie shrilled. "Me, I almost been eat out of mine keetchen mit dees crowd."

Fooling the Plotters

"I'll remember," Mary said, and turning, plodded on again, while Bill and Hank halted in their tracks.

"Aw! It's only the Ticers," Hank said disgustedly.

"We might as well get back to the car and hide in the rear seat again," Bill answered. "I guess that's our best bet, at that. It would be a fine thing if they came out another door and got away, while we were chasing the Ticers."

"Gee!" Bill answered; and upon the word the two boys dashed back to Noel's car and clambered into it, while I, secure from observation once more, went back to Katie's side and strained my eyes to watch the progress of Noel and Mary, in their grotesque disguise, toward the barn.

Katie was in the seventh heaven of delight at being able to be the goddess of the machine in the escape of the honeymooners. She was elaborating on her instructions, I was sure, when she followed up her request for eggs with an excited.

Katie's "Movie Stuff"

"Good night! Sleep tight!"

"Good night," Mary called back, but Noel remained silent. I guessed that he did not trust his voice to give an imitation of Mr. Ticer's voice, which should come anywhere near equalling Mary's performance.

"Don't call again," I told Katie in a low voice. "You've had wonderful success so far, but we ought not to delay them any longer."

I expected a bit of sulkiness upon the part of my little maid, for she dearly loves what she calls "dot movie stuff," but she proved unusually tractable.

"Dot's oke by me," she said largely, and I controlled my risibles with difficulty.

Trouble Looms

"I think your eyes are better than mine, Katie," I told her quickly. "Will you tell me when they get into the car?"

"Vot foolishness you talk!" Katie countered. "Nobody in dees house got better lamps dan you. But me, I vatch, too. But nobody need eyes ven Jerry Ticer starts do' flivver. You kin hear heem go, out as far as Montauk Point."

"I wonder if it will bring the young people out here," I said worriedly.

"Sure ting!" Katie said with magnificent carelessness. "But vot goot vill eet do dem ven dey coom? Ve shoost lie like—vell, nefer mind. Und Meester Bill and Meester Hank, out dere in Meester Noel's car, dey kin swear to eet."

"Yes, that's true, Katie," I assented. And then there came a blast from the horn of Jerry Ticer's car which should have awakened any sleepers within a radius of five miles.

The HIDDEN DOOR

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

The Fire.

FOR a little time Colin lay there with his eyes closed, fighting for composure—but there was no composure—either mental or physical. And physically he was acutely conscious again of the brutal throbbing in his head; and conscious that the gag in his mouth had become a torture.

He looked around him again. The power-house door was open, and he could see figures milling about in the lighted interior, and other figures grouped just outside the door. Dollaire had obviously got inside with some of his men, but there did not appear to be any fighting going on there. Dollaire's quarry evidently had taken refuge down below.

Something impelled him against his will to let his eyes rest again on the clubhouse door and the veranda. Kenniston was still sprawled there, head downward on the steps, but unless he was the victim of an hallucination Lazarre, who was lying half across the threshold, was making an effort to move.

A minute passed. Twice Lazarre attempted to gain his knees only to sink back again. Lazarre at least was not dead.

A strange, vague hope came to Colin. Even though he was powerless to reach or aid the other, it was something to know that Lazarre was not dead. It was not the end—not yet. Lazarre was not dead.

Mechanically Colin strained at his wrists again. No good in that. But there was no one to watch him now, and surely there was some way of getting the gag out of his mouth. His arms made a loop around the tree, but his legs were free.

He struggled to his feet, working his arms upward behind him. Then with the idea of dislodging the necktie that held the gag in place, he pressed the back of his head hard against the tree trunk, and began to rub vigorously on the necktie. After a moment, still knotted behind, it slipped down and dangled like a noose around his neck. He spat out the gag. His mouth was thick, his tongue swollen. He made a gutturai sound.

WELL, it didn't matter. Speech would come back quickly enough. Anyway, the thing was gone now and no longer tortured him.

There was firing now. He could see flashes through the trees on both sides of the power house. He nodded to himself in understanding. There was a hole in the rat trap, as Christophe had phrased it, and the rats had emerged—only to run into Dollaire's men who, strategically placed, were waiting for them.

But Dollaire himself did not seem to be making much headway so far as the power house was concerned. He could see figures moving around inside, presumably searching for Bouchard's "elevator," or the way to operate it; and, outside the figures he had seen before were still grouped near the door.

He looked across again at the club door. Lazarre had managed to shift his position a little and had drawn himself back just over the threshold. Colin watched in bitter impotence for a few moments as the wounded man made a succession of feeble and unsuccessful efforts to retreat still farther — and then he abruptly turned his attention once again to the power house.

Something of moment was going on there now. Those inside were pouring out of the door, and, joining those without, were all running away to one side of the clearing. What was it all about? It wasn't that in some way the club "members" had got the upper hand, for there was still desultory firing going on in the woods on both sides of the power house, and, besides, Dollaire's men must outnumber the others by more than two to one.

Colin stared perplexedly while perhaps a minute, perhaps two, dragged by—and then the front of the power house seemed to burst suddenly outward, and there came the flash and roar of a terrific explosion.

The lights in both the power house and clubhouse went out. There was only the moonlight now. With an exultant yell, the crowd that had gathered at the edge of the clearing was rushing back again to the power house.

Colin remembered Larocque's contemptuous dispos. of any difficulty that a trick opening in the cement floor might present. "We can blast the whole thing open," Larocque had said. That was what they had done, of course. They were swarming in and out like bees at a hive.

COLIN circled his bruised lips with his tongue. What was it they were after in there? He couldn't see nearly so well as before. The blast obviously had wrecked the dynamo, and the interior was black except for what appeared to be the bobbing and wholly inadequate lights, like flitting fire-flies, of a lantern or two. He could still make out Lazarre, though, a crumpled shape on the threshold of the club, the moonlight was sufficient for that, and—

A voice bellowed out full-lunged, in French, from the direction of the power house, and carried distinctly across the clearing to Colin's ears:

"Heh! Get some more light here! Some of you take these cans of oil and spill them over the veranda there, and touch them off. They won't need their club after tonight. It will make a good bonfire!"

That was Dollaire undoubtedly. Dollaire the fox! Fox! The man was an incarnate — Colin strained forward involuntarily, wrenching violently at his wrists, as the full significance of what he had heard burst upon him. Set fire to the veranda! The whole club would burn like tinder. There was Lazarre ....

He saw figures running toward the clubhouse, then a queer, spreading glow, then a flame. An inarticulate sound came from Colin's lips. He could do nothing. They had started the fire on the side of the veranda that faced the power house—but it was only a matter of time—not long—not many minutes—before the fire would catch the walls and creep around to the front.

To Be Continued.

Homemaker's Question Box

Question—I know that it is best to connect various electrical appliances to a convenience-outlet but I have to plug some to a lighting circuit. Is there any best way to do this?

Answer—Should it be necessary to draw current from a lighting socket the following method of making connections should be followed: (1) Separate plug at end of cord which is in two sections—the terminal section, which remains fast to the cord, and the cap section with screw base which usually separates from the cord. (2) With current turned off, screw this separate cap section into the socket. (3) Insert terminal section at end of cord into cap section which you have screwed into socket. (4) Turn current on. Connect plug at the other end of the cord to the cooking appliance.

In disconnecting, reverse this process through each step.

In handling the cord, always grasp it by the plug and not by the cord itself. Rough handling is hard on the fine wires inside the cord, and will eventually cause them to break, thus cutting through the protective covering in which they are carefully wrapped to keep them from touching each other. Should enough of this insulation be damaged to permit the twin wires to come together, or one of them to break, current will no longer travel through the cord to the appliance.

Miss Berg Wed in Quiet Ceremony at Parents' Home

THE marriage of Miss Mary Belle Berg and Harry E. Mahler was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Berg of 579 East Church street. The single ring service was read by Rev. D. T. Koch, pastor of the Church of God in the presence of the immediate families and close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Miss Berg wore for her wedding a dark blue crepe suit with hat and accessories in harmonizing tones. She was attended by her sister Miss Jeanne Berg who wore a frock of black honeycomb crepe. Both wore bouquets of Talisman roses. Paul Weiser acted as best man for Mr. Mahler.

A buffet luncheon followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Mahler left on a short wedding trip to the southern part of the state. They will be at home in their newly-furnished house at 452 Mary street. Mrs. Mahler is a graduate of Harding High school. Mr. Mahler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mahler of Mary street and is employed by the Susquehanna Silk Mills company.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Miss Ruth Burns of Chicago, a cousin of the bridegroom, Mrs. John Howard Nichols of Cleveland and Mrs. N. E. Crissinger of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wagner yesterday for their home in Buffalo, after a visit at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Williams of Blaine Ave. Mrs. Wagner spent two weeks at her parents and was joined by Mr. Wagner Sunday.

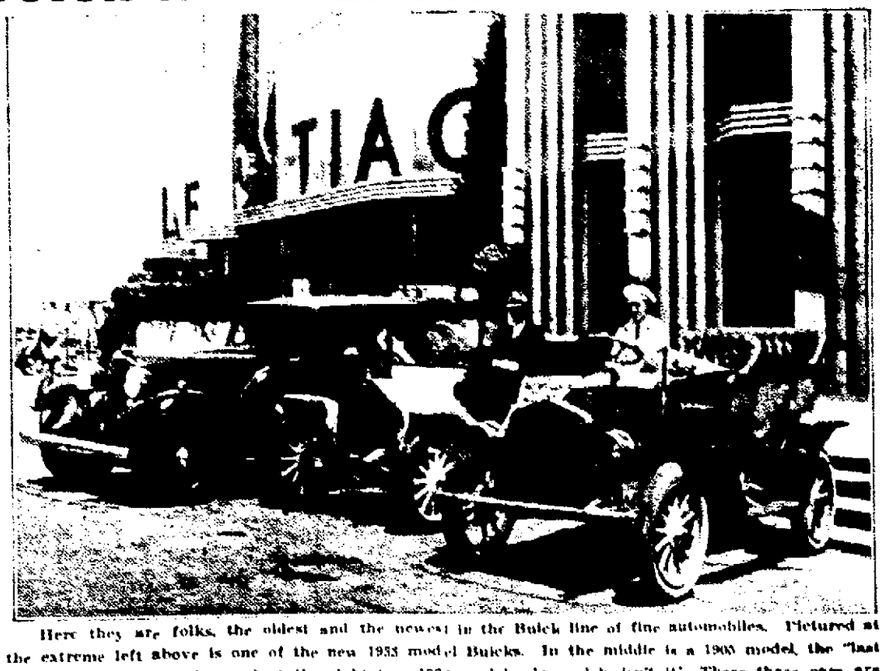
Buick Company Pioneer in Auto Building

BUICK AT A CENTURY OF PROGRESS



Here they are folks, the oldest and the newest in the Buick line of fine automobiles. Pictured at the extreme left above is one of the new 1933 model Buicks. In the middle is a 1909 model, the "last word" in cars in its day and at the right is a 1903 model—classy job, isn't it! These three cars are a part of the Buick company display at the World's fair in Chicago.

DANNER DEALS IN CARS HERE

General Motors Product Embodies All of Latest Automotive Improvements.

When the General Motors Corporation dedicated its building at A Century of Progress exposition in Chicago, a feature of the ceremony was a parade of old cars made in the early days of the industry.

The Buick division of the corporation was represented by two of the earliest cars shown, one made in 1905 and the other in 1909.

The 1905 Buick, powered with two cylinders, represented in its day the ability of the Buick organization to design and produce an automobile which represented the highest development of the motor vehicle. At the dedication ceremony it was driven by Henry Hopf one of the oldest continuous owners of Buicks in the country.

Four Cylinders

The 1909 Buick, powered with four cylinders, and other advances made in four years, was piloted by F. A. Bower, Buick's chief engineer, who had assisted in the design of the car of that year. He had as his passenger R. H. Grant, a vice-president of General Motors.

Side by side with its elder brothers was a shining example of the 1933 Buick line, with W. F. Hufstader, Buick sales manager, at its wheel. The car was striking in its visualization of the progress made in car-building in the last quarter of a century by Buick Motor Company.

A power plant of 1905 design, mounted on a special stand, forms part of the General Motors display in the south wing of the building at A Century of Progress. Its two cylinders, rated at 22 horsepower, form a striking contrast with the 1933 power plant, also on a special mounting, which stands at its side. The 1933 edition has eight cylinders and horsepower of 113.

Danner Handles Line

The Danner Buick Co., of 245 North Main street, are the local distributors of this popular car. Aside from sales of new cars Mr. Danner is exceptionally proud of the service he renders in his ultra modern repair department.

ZACHMAN RUNS IDEAL DAIRY

Modern Equipment and Care in Operation Assures Clean Healthful Milk.

A short trip into the country on the Claridon pike to the farm of Harvey W. Zachman would soon convince one that the Zachman dairy is ideally located and operated in the manner in which one would expect a dairy to be operated.

Modern and clean, the Zachman dairy handles milk with the strictest of care, assuring its cleanliness at all times. Mr. Zachman is constantly doing everything possible to keep his dairy at the highest standard.

In the first place the herd of cows on the Zachman farm is not made up of ordinary stock. The herd is a source of great pride to Mr. Zachman and naturally this causes him to see that they receive every possible care, with the result that the milk is healthy.

Sanitation is a byword at the Zachman dairy. The milk is handled in the best possible manner, cooling arrangements are the best obtainable, the bottling equipment is kept spick and span. That's why you can depend on clean milk when it reaches your home, milk from healthy stock, a private herd, not just "run of mine milk" from dozens of farms, with as many degrees of cleanliness.

The Zachman dairy can be reached at all times by phoning 3623. Give the dairy a ring some day and see for yourself what excellent milk it provides.

Long Day

(Will Rogers Special)

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—My friend Johnson, the code man, was going too fast so I left him. His code for himself and staff is 35 hours, that a week but 35 a day. If he ever goes to sleep he won't wake up till Christmas.

Here is the best one happened in Washington. All the big oil men of course were there, and that of course meant a big poker game. Anytime two oil men meet, they don't open a filling station, they open a poker game. Then an oil man never travels without his big lawyer. Then in another room the lawyers have a crap game.

In the poker game, for the first time, it was all cash on the table, no checks. They didn't trust each other. That's their new code. The lawyers used their same old code of cash. They had never trusted each other.

Yours,

Will Rogers

P. S.—Now for the big polo game to watch the West take the East, like Huey Long took Lousiana.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, Aug. 22

THE PLANETARY configurations, both by mutual and lunar aspect, must be read as having an adverse or sinister influence on the affairs of this day, although things may be lively and interesting. There is a sign of intrigue, conspiracy or secret enmity, but these may be circumvented by alertness and precaution, especially as to writings and with rings, mergers or secret bodies. Make changes carefully.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year calling for all alertness, precaution and wise handling of affairs having an element of intrigue or treachery, especially in connection with large corporations, secret societies or so-called rings or mergers. Be keen for deception and subtlety in all connections.

A child born on this day should be lively and talented, but may be subject to fraudulent and subtle attacks, treachery or intrigue. It may lean to peculiar or morbid urges or impressions and needs sympathy and careful training.

FIX UP YOUR CAR

Houghton Auto Body Service Will Condition Machine for Fall.

Not every family can afford a new model automobile every year, so there are times when some attention should be given to the car in order that it may retain its newness. Upholstering wears, becomes torn and discolored. The rest of the car may have kept its finish. Just because the upholstering has been soiled is no reason why the car should be considered "old." Many times persons give but small attention to the upkeep of their cars, which is one reason why automobiles age rapidly.

With service available such as the Houghton Auto Body Service is able to give there is no reason for driving a car with a shabby interior. This concern does general automobile repair work, with the exception of motor and other mechanical work. It can re-upholster a car, supply it with new wood and deck covering, and restore curtains and glass. If the family car stands in need of some attention before the fall and winter motoring season opens it might be well to have the work attended to before the rush occurs.

IRON FIREMAN CUTS DOMESTIC FUEL BILL

Force Feed Stoker Also Lessens Labor of Stoking Furnace.

Saving of 15 to 50 per cent in the cost of fuel is afforded by the new Iron Fireman automatic coal burner which is distributed locally by the M. & B. Appliance Store, 255 W. Center street.

This burner uses small sized coal, which is fed from a hopper by a feed worm up under the fire. At the same time, a fan supplies a constant blast of air in just the proper amount to give complete combustion without smoke. This process produces a very hot, clean fire, similar to that in a blacksmith's forge, and is known as "forced underfiring."

In addition to the large fuel saving, the Iron Fireman greatly reduced the amount of labor and attention that is required for hand firing, the only labor necessary being to fill the coal hopper once or twice a day and remove the clinkers. The ashes are not taken out but are left until fused into clinkers, thereby burning all the combustible content of the coal.

The M. & B. Appliance Store, authorized local distributors, have several installations here that are show fuel savings.

Chevrolet Finds Heavy Call for World's Fair Cars

Assembly of new automobiles in the plant operated at A Century of Progress in Chicago grounds by the Chevrolet Motor company will pass the 2,000 mark late this month, company officials have announced.

Since the line was set into motion by the light of a cosmic ray just prior to the opening of the fair, output has held at a steady pace of 24 cars a day, six days a week.

In July 600 new Chevrolet Master six voaches and coupes came off the line; in June 589 were built, and in May 165, bringing the total produced here from the time the line started through July 31, to 1,354 units.

If present schedules are maintained, car number 2,000 will be completed during the last hour of the last day of this month, officials said.

They estimated that by the closing of the fair upwards of 3,500 new Chevrolets will have been assembled here. This figure exceeds the total 1932 production of 11 different automobile companies then in business.

So insistent has been the demand for cars carrying the distinction of having been built at the World's fair that every unit so far produced has been purchased at the end of the line and driven away by its new owner. Color options may be specified in advance and the purchaser is given the privilege of going into the assembly pit and helping to build his own car.

People have come here from more than a thousand miles distant with the primary object of purchasing a car built at the fair and driving it home.

The huge assembly room, housed in the special General Motors exposition building, with a wide balcony a fifth of a mile long completely circling the assembly operations, is attracting nearly half of all the people who visit the fair.

The Haberman Chevrolet company of 295-301 West Center street are the local distributors of the Chevrolet. Here they maintain their show room and in the same building is housed as modern and well equipped a garage as can be found in this section of Ohio.

Wright Transfer Equipped To Handle Moving Tasks

When it comes to packing up a whole houseful of furnishing and carting it to some other location, the job is not exactly a source of rejoicing on the part of the household. It is a tremendous undertaking, this moving of the family furniture, unless you go about it in the right way.

Now, the very best way of going about it is to have nothing to do with it—just to shift the job onto the shoulders of somebody who knows how to do it with the minimum of trouble and the maximum of speed and skill.

Here is the solution. You must pay somebody for the job wherever you are going or whatever you are going to do to help yourself. The sensible thing to do is to select some reliable mover and let him do the job from start to finish. Give this mover full instructions, let him pick up the stuff, provide the transportation and set your furniture up again in the new location, saving you from the ruffling of your disposition and the worry."

Who to do it? Well, the Wright Transfer & Storage Co. has been doing it for the people of this city for many years. They have the equipment to do it right, and have trained men who know how to handle furniture, pianos and other things they have. In fact, everything needed to take care of this kind of a job to your complete satisfaction. Just let them do the worrying and you can go about your usual duties with very little interruption of the regular routine.

Or if you want to store some or all of goods, they will attend to this for you in a perfectly satisfactory way, insuring them and providing all necessary safeguards to protect your property.

Nothing more than a phone call to 4287 with the instructions is necessary.

In High Places.

There exists in the usual type of American mind a conception of crime's organization which presents surprise over United States Attorney Medalie's threat to mention the names of certain New York politicians connected with racketeers. The connection is assumed to exist in many cases.

The unscrupulous politician serves as protector for underworld characters who need the influence of someone close to the machinery of justice. It is a connection developed naturally from circumstances which have equipped criminals with large sums of money. They are in a position to overbid the public for the services of corrupt officials.

The politician who is in the market for this type of graft has an opportunity to make a soft spot for himself in most cases. He need employ no aggressive tactics. The violence of his partners in crime does not concern him. His function is that of intercessor when the going gets rough. It is in his interest to provide protection as long as possible in order to keep his share of racketeering spoils intact.

United States Attorney Medalie would have to be a stupid man to perform the duties of his office without seeing evidence of alliances between corrupt politicians and criminals. Where there is enough smoke to convince the public that those alliances exist, there must be fire. In an ideal state, that fire would be exposed without bickering. In New York, which is neither better nor worse than other states, exposure, if it ever comes about, will be a highly complicated process which may or may not bring convictions.

The important thing is the probability that Mr. Medalie will talk. If he says half as much as he is expected to say, his words will spoil the game in many high places. On the other hand, if nothing comes of his threats to describe what few public officials dare to make public, his waiting audience will be just that much more certain that there are things to be hidden. Mr. Medalie has a great load of responsibility on his shoulders. He has promised to go straight to the heart of the crime problem.

The New Watchword.

Senator Davis of Pennsylvania has been traveling a rocky road the last few months, but the jolts haven't prevented him from observing a fact of prime significance. In a recent interview, he made this statement: "We are fighting abundance because that abundance brings with it cut-throat competition. Cut-throat competition means low prices and starvation wages. Planning is the new watchword of the nation."

Obvious as the trend is toward a planned national economy, which means the controlling hand of government in the business field, it is questionable whether or not business is reconciled to such a system. Despite the certainty of many observers who are convinced that the present experiment, if successful, will bring about establishment of a new order, many business men continue to think of regulation as a temporary thing.

They seem sure in their own minds that when better conditions have been created there will be a return to the old ways of doing business. In fact, many of them predicate their support of the recovery program upon their belief in that fact. They are willing to try regulation as a rescue measure, but not as a means of maintaining a better balanced economy.

All the evidence is on the other side. In statements and attitudes of administrative leaders and their advisers, their conception of a permanent policy of industrial regimentation is seen plainly. It seems likely, in fact, that many of them think of the current situation as a thing to be surmounted incidental to the placing in effect of a more binding set of regulations which will constitute an effective control over national economic activity.

Comparative Calm.

On the assumption that revolution is a purging of popular emotions, Americans believe that the ousting from the presidency of Gerardo Machado signifies the beginning of a calm recovery in the republic of Cuba. There is fair evidence, however, that they are going to be disappointed.

Machado's successor, Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, does not represent the enthusiastic will of the people. Although a man of high repute and attainments, he is a compromise choice for the political post he holds. There were many factions working for defeat of Machado. They worked together on their project of destruction, but apparently they are not willing to join forces in the work of reconstruction.

Barring unexpected vigor in the new president's administration, Cuba will continue to be chafed by a desperate economic annoyance. It is not probable that such vigor will be produced, for the good reason that De Cespedes does not have strong support behind him. He is a provisional executive, with the usual restrictions.

Actually, the responsibility of the United States for Cuban welfare was extended when Machado fled the island. This government's part in the maneuver showed that Machado did not have its favor. With all his faults, however, he was a strong politician—stronger than any of his contemporaries.

It is essential, if American plans are to go smoothly, that Cuba remain comparatively calm. It is obvious that Cuba cannot remain calm for long unless it gets economic relief, which means a market for its sugar. If consistency of policy is to be observed, the United States will have to devote itself assiduously to providing relief in order to escape carrying out the more unpleasant obligation of keeping Cuba in a state of peace and order.

One Plan At a Time.

The act of offering opposition to a plan implies, under the code of reason, possession of a better and more practical plan. Those who have complied with the national recovery act and the masses of people whose welfare is the object of compliance have a right to ask its opponents what they have to offer in its place.

Since it has been generally assumed by a majority of the people that the plan was feasible if given support, it must be concluded that its failure must be blamed on those who refused to try to make it work. It is a terrific responsibility for them to take—a responsibility so terrific, as a matter of fact, that they haven't the slightest notion of recognizing it.

Their refusal to cooperate ignores the fundamental conception of American government—majority rule. President Roosevelt's recovery program has the undoubted support of most of the people. No one claims it is perfect, but it is the plan to which the nation has turned for a great experiment. It was evident at the outset that it could be wrecked by the refusal of any powerful minority to cooperate. The possibility was overshadowed, however, by faith in the people's desire and ability to pull together.

Both Mr. Roosevelt and his set of principles have been supported devoutly by many people harboring strong dislikes for the man and his beliefs. That support has been given as a gesture of patriotism, a manifestation of faith in the ability of Americans to better their condition by pulling together. It is admitted that the national recovery act has been cruel in many instances. From the point of view of numerous individuals, it is one of the most ruthless moves ever made by any government.

They constitute the minority. As individual capitalists, they have been hurt. As Americans, they still are under an obligation to believe in the plan which has been indorsed by a majority—the majority whose welfare determines their future existence as business men. Only one scheme can be tried at a time, and until further notice that scheme is NRA. Later, dissenters may get their chance.

The Pork Barrel Crowd.

The pork barrel is one of the permanent institutions of government in the United States. It would be difficult to find any government which is not afflicted with its presence. In evitably, where there is public money to be spent a crowd of greedy persons are on hand to grab more than their proper share of it.

The Roosevelt administration's policy of fighting hard times by making vast expenditures has created the largest pork barrel in national history, excepting that of war times. Consequently, the largest and greediest pork barrel crowd has assembled. The threat of graft never was greater.

Appearances indicate, however, that an unusually vigorous guard is being maintained over the pork. Secretary Ickes and Budget Director Douglas are reported to be almost inhumanely stingy in their distributions, and they are the chief distributors. Theirs is an attitude without precedent. It is, however, an attitude worthy of making a precedent. No single impression of the administration is more encouraging to sweating taxpayers.

Any Time Now.

Usually about this time of year newspapers are brightened up with some perennial gem about monsters. Sometimes it has been a housewife or a whole neighborhood of them frightened in their gardens by the sudden appearance of an uncouth creature apparently devoted to the wild life. Other times it has been the presence in a lake or swamp of some marvelously wrought creature looking as if he had stepped out of a museum of natural history.

There have been, in the past, snakes that infested resort beaches, birds whose wings darkened many square feet of the sky and all manner of things that walk and crawl. But here it is, past the middle of August, and the only thing out of the way is a vagrant school of sharks off the North Atlantic states. As if to show it is going to be a dull year, the sharks were no larger than sharks usually are. No one was dismembered by their attack, not even scratched.

Causes for the failure of this usual August epidemic of freaks to put in an appearance are obscure. They probably have something to do with a season which hasn't produced any of the usual signs, however. The August slump has failed to materialize in business. The weather has been uncommonly decent. A national administration which started out with a terrific rush somehow or other is keeping up the pace. There has been a tremendous turnover in important events.

Newspapers have been filled with important news during a month when editors expect to go digging for headlines. In all probability, the freaks and monsters have put in their appearance with the same old frequency, but they couldn't stick it out in competition with the blue eagle, sow reduction the federal drive against racketeering, codes of fair competition and other curious products of the new deal.

Comment of the Press

SORROWS OF REPEAL.

The impression in some quarters that the moment prohibition is repealed the United States will go on a grand bender, bust or jag, is not well founded for the simple reason that there won't be enough hard liquor to go 'round, and what there is will be about as expensive as good bootleg stock.

There are about 2,000,000 gallons of pre-war liquors stored in a warehouse in Brooklyn, one of the largest single stocks, but the total amount of aged whiskies available in the nation is not greater than 5,000,000 gallons. New whiskies, now in process of aging, are estimated at 7,000,000 gallons. Demand for spirits at government warehouses has gone up about 200 per cent during the last few weeks. Case prices are going up about $5 a month. Bourbon is now quoted at $47.50, rye at $60, some brandies at $55.

Even were supplies ample, federal and state taxes would run the price up. On the federal tax of $3.40 a gallon, or $1.80 a quart, will be superimposed state excise or license taxes. So that when the distiller's cost of production, advertising, handling and profit are figured in, drinking is going to be an expensive indulgence. Imports will not relieve the situation because there is a tariff of $5 a gallon which, plus the internal revenue tax of $6.40 a gallon, brings the price to $11.40 laid down here before state licensing taxes have been paid and the producer's profit taken. This explains the plan of foreign distillers to establish plants in the United States, but whisky must be aged four years before it can be bonded.

Let's take comfort from thinking of England, where tax on beer has been as high as $20.17 a barrel and on distilled spirits $17.64 a gallon of standard proof strength—49.24 per cent alcohol.—Zanesville Times-Recorder.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Bronchitis Is Too Often Neglected.

DAILY GUIDE TO HEALTH

To take stock of ourselves once in a while is a good thing to do. No doubt many of you suffer from certain disorders yet you pay little attention to them. If you have no pain or marked discomfort, you never think of your body.

This is unwise. Many ailments are painless yet when neglected they do great damage to the body. Attended to at the proper time they are gotten rid of, as they should be.

It is probable that of all the chronic diseases, bronchitis is the one most often overlooked. This is unfortunate. Continued neglect of chronic bronchitis may lead to serious disorders of the heart, lungs and other organs.

As its name implies, chronic bronchitis is a persistent inflammation of the bronchial tubes. It is a common affliction of middle age, but may occur in young adults and in children. It usually follows a winter cold and cough and continues through the winter months. Severe cases may last all the year.

The sufferer from chronic bronchitis has difficulty in breathing. He complains of shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion. There is a constant wheezing in the chest and the patient is made uncomfortable by a hacking and persistent cough.

Spasmodic attacks of coughing is a common complaint in this annoying disorder. The face becomes reddish-purple and the victim is only relieved when he "brings up" large amounts of mucus.

As a rule, repeated violent attacks of coughing leave the sufferer in a weakened and exhausted state. The severe coughing and hacking place a strain upon the muscles of the heart. Indeed, most sufferers from chronic bronchitis have enlargement of the heart. Eventually the heart muscle weakens and then signs of heart failure appear. Unless the strain is removed, the heart may become so weakened that it is unable to carry on its work.

Chronic bronchitis is often traced to neglect of the teeth and to faulty hygiene of the mouth. All infected and decayed teeth should be removed as soon as possible. Many times relief follows the removal of enlarged and diseased tonsils.

If you suffer from chronic bronchitis do not accept it as a trivial ailment. Consult with your physician. Follow his directions and advice. It is a disease that ought not to be neglected.—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH.

WELCOMING HIS FRIENDS.

Many boys and girls who are unable for some reason, either real or imagined, to make contacts with their normal environment, are thrown back on less desirable companionship to satisfy the craving for social life and admiration which is in every human being.

A child must feel at ease among his playmates if he is to make friends, and if he thinks his clothes are wrong, or that his background and traditions do not conform to the common mold, he will either withdraw into his shell, or choose companions who will accept and—at least apparently—admire him.

It is hard always to dress a child in the prevailing fashion, or even to dress him well. It is often impossible to contrive to give him the advantages enjoyed by his contemporaries, and in many cases undesirable to permit the license to which they consider themselves entitled. But it is possible to cultivate his friends by welcoming them to the house and making them understand and so accept his environment.

Many parents resent the noise and confusion and disorder of open house. The young folks enjoy it, and if they are to feel at home will demand a certain amount of it.

Open house does not necessarily mean lavish entertainment or elaborate refreshments. It simply entails making your home a port of call where the young people may meet to talk or gather to go on somewhere else.

Now and again a party may spring up spontaneously, inspired on the spur of the moment, and asking only to be let alone to develop as it likes. Neither formality nor money are required, only a tolerant spirit and quiet nerves.

A child whose home becomes such a center need never worry about his appearance nor his point of view.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

OHIO'S STATE FLAG.

John Eisenmann, a Cleveland architect, designed Ohio's state flag which was first displayed July 18, 1901, at the Pan American exposition at Buffalo, the occasion being Ohio day at the fair. Ohio had not had a flag up to that time and the state's commissioners instructed Eisenmann, who had designed the state's buildings at the exposition, to design a flag, too, and have a few made. He did so, and in the formal exercises of the day, Samuel L. Patterson, the chairman of the commission, presented one flag to Governor Nash, and Charles L. Swaine, secretary of the exposition organization.

As explained on this occasion, the angles of the triangle next to the staff represents the hills and valleys of the state; the stripes, the highways and waterways, the circle in the triangle not only the initial of the name of the state, but the northwest territory out of which the state was formed, the 13 stars on the staff side of the circle, the original states; and the four stars on the far side of the circle, the four states (with Ohio) that had been created when Ohio was admitted to the union—Ohio being the seventeenth state.

Rhyming Optimist

BENEATH THE MASK.

These are the masks men wear
To hide the truth from sight;
The dark design of care,
Foreboding as the night;
The masks of hate and fear,
The sullen mask of pride;
They don them year by year
And shut themselves inside.

But I have learned to read
The thoughts beneath the mask:
The longing and the need,
The courage for the task;
And I have found behind
Grim looks and visage cold
Hearts that are true and kind.
Where dreams like flowers unfold.

In masks men often go,
In masks of scorn or mirth;
But, safe beneath, I know
Are honor, valor, worth.
Ah, it is good to feel,
In spite of masks men wear,
Life will at last reveal
The virtues hidden there!

FINDING THE RIGHT WAY. Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near; let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.—Isaiah 55 6, 7.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Aug. 21—One of the most important jobs in the NRA is held by a woman—Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey of New York, head of the consumers' advisory board.

MRS. MARY H. RUMSEY

That her duties have been exacting was indicated recently when a nervous breakdown brought orders from her physician that she must rest for a few days.

The enforced vacation came at the end of a lively week that had seen her in a dispute with a professor member of her committee, a dispute in which she had asserted strongly her rights as a committee head.

Her board's job is to protect the rights of consumers and to it she recently called as a member Mrs. Hugh Johnson, wife of the NRA administrator, naming her also to the complaint committee.

Mrs. Rumsey has become one of the most familiar figures at NRA headquarters. At every code hearing, and at times there are as many as three going on at one time, she may be seen. And like the other officials of the NRA, she is at her office in the department of commerce building late at night.

The daughter and heiress of E. J. Harriman, in addition to her work at the NRA, has two Virginia farms to run, as well as an estate in New York. There are three children to be looked after.

She is a personal friend of Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, and lives with her in Washington. She and the labor secretary have been friends and co-workers for years.

One of Mrs. Rumsey's principal duties is to educate the public. It is up to her and those at the office to get the public to buy only with those establishments that display the Blue Eagle.

Complaints from various individuals are handled in her division by Mrs. Johnson. Grievances from those in large or small industries are given the same attention.

Those who violate the President's reemployment agreement will hear from Mrs. Rumsey's division.

The difficulties will be aired a-plenty, the idea being that it will be up to the public to make a decision as to fair play.

Mrs. Rumsey, after the preliminary stages of the NRA are over, probably will be one of the most important figures in the national recovery administration.

Now pressure is being brought to bear to get all industries into a code of fair competition.

It will be her responsibility to see that fair play prevails after the industries are signed up.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

ANTI-KISSING LEAGUE.

Won't somebody please inaugurate an Anti-Kissing League or a Kiss-Reform League — or something?

I'm so tired of seeing people kiss each other! Aren't you? The other night I sat through a screen-play in which a girl and a man kissed each other seven times in fifteen minutes—and it was a "crime-play" at that.

Once, I secretly thought that a kiss was the most wonderful and thrilling thing in the world! I could write whole columns about it. No other subject so intrigued me! But then, kissing was a personal and private affair, not a public pastime like flagpole sitting.

It's the repetition of a thing that makes it monotonous and tiresome. For, while repetition may be the secret of successful advertising, it becomes a terrible bore when applied to anything else. The insane asylums are filled with people whose only mania is repeating the same words or doing the same thing, over and over again.

And after you have watched a pair of screen lovers kissing each other for an hour or so, or sat through a party where everybody seemed to be kissing everybody else, you begin to wonder if you, too, are not losing your reason and qualifying for the observation ward.

Of course, affection is a beautiful thing and everybody wants it. Every woman enjoys being kissed by the right man at the right moment. It would be the most devastating fate imaginable, to die without ever having been kissed.

But why should everybody, and everybody else, all the time, without rhyme, reason or the slightest provocation? It's like having ice cream or champagne for breakfast, lunch and dinner, every day in the week.

It would be a pity and a shame if the whole American nation should turn against kissing, just as we turned against midget golf and prohibition and auction bridge and short skirts.

Kissing, after all, is an art—and one of the strongest human impulses. But, like all the other arts, it ought to be practiced with skill and delicacy and self-restraint. Above all, it ought to have a meaning.

Nothing makes me madder than to be kissed, just as a matter of form, by a woman who hates me, unless it is to be kissed, just as a matter of course, by a man who bores me!

That's why I suggest a kissless form league. We have a Divorce Reform league, and a Prohibition Reform league—in fact a league for the elimination of every sort of persecution and publicity—so why not for the kissing nuisance?

Just a few weeks of total abstinence from kissing for a brief relief from being annoyed, having to see anybody be kissed might revive our fainting interest in the art—and make us appreciate for kisses as a camel is for drinks after a 600-mile walk!—Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Aug. 21, 1923.

Army mail planes inaugurated a coast-to-coast air mail service when C. Eugene Johnson, federal airplane pilot, left Hazelhurst field at Mineola, N. Y., in the first lap of a transcontinental relay race. The object was to establish a 28-hour mail service between New York and San Francisco.

The condition of Mrs. T. A. Cooper of Bucyrus, who had been injured in an automobile accident the preceding Saturday, was reported improved.

Miss Emma R. Berndt, 42, a teacher in the Marion public schools for more than 20 years, died at the City hospital. She had been principal of the Davids Street school the last seven years.

It was announced that the new issue of postage stamps, bearing the likeness of the late President Harding, would go on sale here Sept. 1. The Marion postoffice was to be the first receiving an allotment of the stamps. Postmaster Crow said that he had already received a large number of requests for the stamps from different sections of the country.

A survey just completed by the United States department of labor showed that there was a scarcity of both skilled and unskilled labor in Marion. This was unusual, as at this time of the year industry ordinarily slowed down and workers were laid off.

Minneapolis Slugger After 70 Circuit Blows for Season.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Aug 21—Back home on his own field where he has the range of the right field fence Joe Hauser is aiming at 70 home runs for the American Association record book

The big Minneapolis slugger made only one hit in a double header yesterday, but it was his 60th home run of the season To-day he was shy only three of his record set of 63 at Baltimore in 1930.

Minneapolis defeated Indianapolis, 6 to 5 and 14 to 6 in yesterdays doubleheader to sweep the series

St. Paul and Louisville divided their twin entertainment. The Colonels went ten innings to win the opener, 7 to 6 and the Saints took the other one, 3 to 2

Milwaukee bunched its hits to win a pair from Toledo 6 to 1, and 6 to 5

CALEDONIA BEATEN BY AGOSTA COMBINE

Winners Hammer Out 12 Safe Hits Off Two Ace Twirlers.

Taking no heed of the fact that Caledonia was using its two ace twirlers, the Agosta baseball team stepped out yesterday and pounded out a 12-7 victory over the Caledonia Indians Agosta started in by nicking Carl Huffman for seven runs in the first two frames finally shelling him from the mound in favor of Emmett Curtiss Curtiss fared little better, allowing the winners another five tallies before the nine innings were completed

Mervin Harruff went the route for Agosta and allowed but seven hits. Four errors on the part of his mates helped Caledonia turn every hit into a score Only one earned run was scored off Harruff

Mike Braham clouted a home run in the third with two men aboard

REFORMED TO PLAY EPWORTH TODAY FOR CHURCH LOOP CROWN

Twirling Duel in Sight With Whitcum and Schwaderer on Mound.

Not having been able to decide in the regularly allotted schedule just which of the two is the better ball club the Epworth Seniors and First Reformed Sunday school softball teams will get together at Lincoln park today for the third time and try to settle the question On the outcome of the combat rests the decision as to which team will be champion of the No 2 Sunday school league and which one will represent that circuit in the Little World series, Marion's own diamond classic

Three Teams In

Three teams, the Presbyterians Gasco club and Kappa fraternity have already won the right to compete in the series by winning the championships of their respective leagues At one time the Epworth Seniors apparently had the crown tucked away but Reformed came up with a rush in the closing game of the schedule and threw the race into a deadlock, forcing a play-off Now the championship is very much in doubt

Reformed and Epworth have both marked up 12 victories and had two defeats charged against them Each holds one triumph over the other Epworth took the first clash by a 1-0 score and Reformed evened matters in the second meeting by a 2-0 count

Classy Twirlers Meet

Two of the city's leading twirlers will toe the slab when these teams meet in their crucial conflict Dale Schwaderer is slated to do the tossing for Reformed and his opponent will be Maury Whitcum This is Whitcum's first year as a regular but his right handed slants have proved decidedly puzzling for enemy batters He will face a worthy foe in Schwaderer another youthful but more experienced right hander who has been flinging them by batters for two years They should put on a sizzling mound duel

The game is called for 6 p m and every effort will be made to get it started as near that time as possible in order to escape playing the final innings in semi-darkness

MARION RED BIRDS CAPTURE TOURNEY

The National Refining company's softball team of Marion won the consolation award yesterday in the Ohio Northern softball tournament at Leipsic The Marion club dropped a 3-1 tilt to Leipsic, the champion, in the first start yesterday, but came back to beat Fostoria, the other defeated semi-finalist, 5-2 in the second game. Maury Whitcum twirled the Leipsic game and Freddie Vestal pitched the game against Fostoria. Pete Howison caught both games.

Dick McAninch, right fielder for the Refiners, was voted the best right fielder in the tournament.

BRITISH STAR LOSES TO YANK TENNIS ACE

Helen Wills Moody Rallies To Win After Dropping First Set.

By The Associated Press

FOREST HILLS N Y. Aug 21 —The women's tennis championships enjoying a long run at the West side tennis club's big stadium went into their second week today with one singles and one doubles semi final on the program

Whatever happened today promised to be something of an anti climax after the exciting goings on of yesterday, when Betty Nuthall of England captured a set before bowing to Helen Wills Moody in their semi final match

No one is supposed to win sets or even six games from Helen so some 6 000 spectators were amazed when Betty jumped on the world's No 1 player with both feet in the first set and won it by the lopsided score of 6-2

Betty couldn't hold such a terrific pace and in the course of events, fell victim to Mrs Moody's calm, purposeful play by scores of 2 6 6-3, 6-2

Miss Nuthall returned to the court a few minutes later to pair with Freda James and advance to the finals of doubles The British pair eliminated the defending champions, Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, 6-4 4 6 7 5

WALDO BEATEN BY PROSPECT NINE, 6-3

NATS WHIP ST. LOUIS TWICE; GIANTS AGAIN TRIP CHICAGO BRUINS

Cleveland Tightens Third Place Grip By Grabbing Two from Boston.

Although they haven't yet caused any qualms for the New York Giants and Washington Senators, who built up their leads to 7½ and 8½ games respectively over the last week end the Boston Braves and Cleveland Indians appear to be the teams to watch at the present stage of the big league pennant races.

The Braves inflicted painful damage upon two western challengers for the Giants' lead last week and finished off yesterday by climbing into a virtual tie for second place as they trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates in a double header Cleveland which has been showing steadily improvement under Walter Johnson's guidance, found the batting range a little over a week ago and has stormed up from fifth place to third in the American league winning its last six games in a row

Leaders Advance

Despite the wholesale shifts in the ranking of the lower clubs in both leagues, Washington and the Giants have steadily improved their positions Going out 8½ games in front of the New York Yankees Saturday Washington held that lead yesterday by whipping the peaky St Louis Browns in two close games 2 to 1, and 4 to 3 The double victory extended Washington's winning streak to 12 games.

The Yankees acted like their old selves as they overwhelmed the Chicago White Sox 14-3 and 11-3 with the aid of two homers by Lou Gehrig, but they couldn't gain an inch

The Giants, with Hal Schumacher winning his 14th game, trounched the Chicago Cubs 6 to 1, as their share in a big improvement in their standing Boston, meanwhile whipped the second place Pittsburgh club 5-4 in an 11-inning clash and 8 to 1 and the St Louis Cardinals bounced the Brooklyn Dodgers around twice, 6-2 and 5-0 to gain a third interest in the second place deadlock The Phillies and Cincinnati Reds had an off-day

Tribe Hits Stride

Cleveland held third place in the American safe from Detroit's bid by pasting the Boston Red Sox two more times, 14-6 and 9-4. The sixth inning settled the opener as the Indians' smacked Lloyd Brown for 10 runs A four-run sixth clinched the second argument behind the seven hit flinging of Wesley Ferrell, who won his first game since June 21

The Detroit Tigers broke their fourth place deadlock with the Philadelphia Athletics, with a double victory, 5-4, and 6-1. They beat Lefty Grove in the ninth inning of the opener while Elon Hogsett pitched three-hit relief ball, then breezed in behind Carl Fischer's brilliant hurling.

STOCKS CLING TO ADVANCES

Shares Gain in Early Sales But Drift in Later Trading.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 21. Financial markets generally settled down to routine performances today with most traders maintaining a watchful waiting pose.

Stocks moved up rather briskly for about half an hour after the opening, then dropped back to a steady and featureless jog. Some early gains of 1 to 3 or more points were pared or eliminated but there was little important selling pressure apparent. Grains were fairly firm at the start but later drifted moderately lower. Cotton was little better than even and other commodities were slightly mixed. The dollar was a bit easier at one time in foreign exchange dealings, although it did not display unusual weakness. Bond market prices held to a narrow range.

Shares of the alcohol companies reflecting the repeal vote in Missouri were in demand. Gains of 1 to around 3 points were recorded by Schenley Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Commercial Alcohol and National Distillers. Advances of 1 to 2 or more were held by Case Threshing, Celanese, Sears Roebuck, Great Western Sugar, American Sugar Refining, United Aircraft, Consolidated Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Union Pacific.

While Wall street continued to discuss the various angles of inflationary possibilities, the feeling was very widespread that no radical measures would be taken by the administration in the immediate future. It was pointed out that Washington is centering all its efforts on the NRA program and any sharp upturn in prices generally, before the wage-raising plans have time to take hold, would not be consistent with the program.

Market observers are inclined to expect the federal reserve system will do something soon about further credit expansion, which, in a way, will be a form of inflation. For some time the system has confined its weekly purchases of government obligations to only about $10,000,000. It has authority to expand its purchases to a total of some $3,000,000,000. As the government has a huge amount of new inforeign exchange dealings, although the recovery plans, it is considered probable that the federal reserve will be the logical destination for a large amount of the new securities.

Wool Market.
By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Aug. 21—Asking prices on domestic wools are firm and unchanged from last week. The undertone of the market is particularly strong on 64s, 70s blood wool as a considerable portion of the recent interest has been on this grade. Inquiries continue somewhat scattered. Estimated receipts of domestic wool at Boston, reported to the Boston grain and flour exchange during the week ended Aug. 19, amounted to 2,810,000 pounds as compared with 10,477,500 during the previous week.

GRAINS SLUMP AFTER UPTURN

Sporadic Selling Follows Advance, Causing General Decline.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Aug. 21 — Grains sagged wearily today after a moderate advance at the opening. Trading was erratic, sporadic selling forcing prices gradually backward with each succeeding rally failing to gain back all lost ground. Lack of interest by outside buyers f reed both wheat and corn back at one time to three cents below Saturday's finish, but rallies wiped out part of this loss. Provisions were moderately active and slightly higher with hogs.

Wheat closed fairly steady, steady to ¾ cent lower than Saturday's finish, corn steady to ⅛ cent down, oats steady to ⅛ off, and provisions steady to 10 cents higher.

EARLY HISTORY OF C., D. & M. RECALLED

pect as a logical spot for a power station, Whysall said, recalling the early years of the road's operation. However, Webb did not foresee the future demand for electric power, Whysall recalls. Webb was more interested in the transportation phase of the business, and laid out a comprehensive program that would have made Marion an interurban center had his plans materialized

To facilitate his entrance into Marion, Webb in 1903 bought the Marion Railway Co., which then operated street car lines in this city extending as far west as Davids street and then purchased the Marion power station, combined it with the interurban, and called it the Railway Light & Power Co, Whysall said

The Marion-Columbus interurban line was first known as the C, D. & M. Railroad Co In 1905 its name was changed to the C, D. & M. Railway Co Although the company was apparently operating successfully its affairs took a turn in 1909 that resulted in receivership proceedings, and Eli M. West of Columbus was named receiver. He took over the road in 1909 and operated it until 1917 when the C, D. & M. Electric Co of Marion purchased it

Business Increases

The freight and passenger business of the road felt a substantial increase when it became part of a Columbus-Cleveland line, joining the C, M & B Railway Co. line between Marion and Bucyrus, and the Cleveland & Southwestern line from Bucyrus to Cleveland. The C, M. & B. line was built in 1909, a short time after the Cleveland & Southwestern was placed in operation, Whysall said.

Of the interurban line that once joined Columbus and Cleveland, the Marion-Columbus section is the last to seek permission to cease operations. Several years ago the C., D. & M. Electric Co.'s street railway service in Delaware and Marion was abandoned. Two years ago the abandonment of the Cleveland & Southwestern broke up the Columbus-Cleveland business in which the C, D. & M Electric Co. shared A few months ago the northern division of the company, operating an 18-mile section between Marion and Bucyrus, was authorized to suspend operations when the electric company officials had reached an agreement with the cities regarding disposition of the tracks

It is almost impossible to furnish a financial history of the company, for its financial records for years have been interwoven with those of the C., D. & M Electric Co power property. Whysall said the road, to his knowledge, never paid a dividend on its common stock, although its operation was generally regarded as successful until the time that automobile and truck operations began to make heavy inroads on the freight and passenger business. Its volume of business from Columbus-Cleveland freight alone in some years mounted to as high as $75,000. company officials said.

The Marion-Columbus line is 45 miles long, operating through Marion, Prospect, Delaware, Worthington and Columbus.

Has Peculiar History

One peculiarity in the history of this line is that it went into receivership at a time when other interurban lines were coming into existence. In later years, when some of the newer lines were going into hands of receivers, the C., D. & M line began to recover and operated at a profit.

Nearly 30 years ago, when Marion park, located just south of the grove near the Scioto power station, was at its height of popularity the interurban cars would be filled with passengers when a ball game or special picnic was being held at the park. A dancing pavilion at the park also increased the demand for passenger service.

The line probably enjoyed its most prolonged spurt of passenger business during the "front porch campaign of the late President Harding. During this period, it carried many distinguished persons to this city. It was not uncommon to see silk hats bobbing in the crowd of passengers at interurban station, then located on North State street.

of the paper dollar and keep the gold here, or at least permit the sale abroad of gold produced and refined here by our labor

We, evidently, cannot make up our minds to start the inflation that prosperity demands and may therefore decide to go back to the gold basis, announcing "All a mistake, boys; the gold dollar is back"

OBSERVATIONS from three doctors that you might remember advantageously:

Dr. Evan Evans, who lives at the top of the medical profession, says: "Many doctors have still to learn that when the operation is more dangerous than the condition to be remedied the surgeon should not operate."

Dr. Mayo, back from Europe, says beware of the newly hatched medical "specialist" Says he, "The boy comes out of the school and immediately hangs out his shingle as a specialist, having no idea that each part of the body affects all of its parts, and convinced that he can work on one part without knowing, by experience, about the other parts."

Dr Mayo says the country needs more "general practitioners," or family doctors, fewer of what doctors call "specialists of the left eyebrow."

Dr. Harold B Disbrow quotes his teacher of Johns Hopkins, Dr. John M. T. Finney "Before you perform an operation, involving any risk for the patient, don't consult your professional, scientific views, but ask yourself 'Would I perform this operation, under these conditions, on my own mother?' If the answer is no, do not operate."

AUSTRIANS SEEKING AID OF MUSSOLINI

By The Associated Press

VIENNA, Aug. 21—Political circles, taking cognizance of Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss' hurried visit to Italy for a conference with Premier Mussolini, inclined to the belief today that the chancellor has abandoned his policy of friendship with Germany.

Rather, these quarters think, Dollfuss is trying to win the Italian premier to concerted action by big European powers against what the Austrian government characterizes as German interference with Austrian internal political affairs.
